

Fair Eleanore Scorns Bikes of Yore

NO more bicycles for Eleanore Whitney, 18-year-old starlet in Paramount pictures, who scorns the conventional two-wheeled affairs that must be pedaled since Col. Roscoe Turner, noted speed flier, presented her with one of the new "Motor glides" which takes her from studio to studio on the Paramount lot at 25 to 30 miles an hour—and comfortably on the soft, Jumbo, Jr., streamline tires. A tap-dancing pupil of famous Bill Robinson, Eleanore's agile feet have brought her leading roles in "Millions in the Air," "Timothy's Quest" and other pictures.
