

Bing Rides To Waikiki On Scooter

It took Bing Crosby, Hollywood's ace crooner, just one day to introduce something new in the way of fun devices to Waikiki.

Bouncing into the pavilion of the Outrigger Canoe club yesterday afternoon came Bing and a friend, each riding a motor-scooter, the latest innovation in transportation from Hollywood. Equipped with one cylinder, the vehicle is the size of an ordinary scooter and is big enough to hold even men the size of the crooner upon the comfortable cushioned seat.

"How fast does it go?" one of the mob asked, as the Hollywood favorite and his friend got off.

"Twenty-five miles an hour, holds a half a gallon of gasoline, and makes 50 miles on a full tank," Crosby replied, wiping the perspiration from his forehead. To keep his hair out of his eyes while zooming from Diamond Head to the beach, he wears a white handkerchief tied around his head.

The two motor-scooters are
